America to Me
(episodes 1 and 2)

This documentary series presents an exclusive look into an academic year at suburban Chicago's Oak Park and River Forest High Schools. Students, teachers, and administrators from one of the country's highest performing and diverse public schools are profiled in the face of decades-old racial and educational inequities. The series dives into the experiences of the racially diverse student population, sparking conversations about what has and has not succeeded in the quest to achieve racial equity and overcome bias in education. 58m/60m. There will be a post-film panel discussion featuring Sandita Choju, Associate Professor of History and African American Studies at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign; Glenford Darbeau (Master of Arts in Educational Administration), vice principal in the Antelope Valley Union High School District; and Storieta K. Darbeau (Master of Arts in Educational Administration), elementary school teacher and support provider for The Teacher Induction Program.
