#UCSBxCURRENTS

SYMPOSIUM ON
CROSS-CURRENTS
NAVIGATING TRANSLATION

FRIDAY-SUNDAY, MARCH 2-4, 2018
STUDENT RESOURCE BUILDING, UC SANTA BARBARA

Please join the American Indian & Indigenous Collective (AIIC) and keynote speakers Dr. Cutcha Risling-Baldy and Dr. Donald Fixico for three days of panels, presentations and discussions exploring the cross-current of translation writ large for Native and indigenous peoples.

The symposium is free of charge, however participants are asked to register in advance. Many parts of the symposium will be streamed live. Participants may join online any time at https://ucsb.zoom.us/my/heykeri. Join us socially: #UCSBxCURRENTS. For more information, email ucsbaic@gmail.com.

Dr. Cutcha Risling Baldy, Assistant Professor of Native American Studies at Humboldt State University. Her research is focused on Indigenous feminisms, California Indians and decolonization. She has published in the Ecological Processes journal, the Wicazo Sa Review, and the Decolonization: Indigeneity, Education and Society journal. She has also published creative writing in the As/Us journal and News from Native California.

HOSTED BY: American Indian & Indigenous Collective Research Focus Group

SPONSORS: Interdisciplinary Humanities Center | Graduate Student Association | Department of Theater and Dance
Department of English & ACGC | Department of Linguistics | Department of Political Science
Department of History | Department of Anthropology | UCSB College of Letters and Sciences | Department of Religious Studies
Department of Music | MultiCultural Center | Graduate Division | Gevirtz Graduate School of Education
Film & Media Studies | Associated Students | Environmental Studies | Executive Vice Chancellor David Marshall
Associate Vice Chancellor Maria Herrera Sobek | The Hull Chair-Feminist Studies

CO-HOSTED BY: Coastal Band of the Chumash Nation
Santa Ynez Band of Chumash Indians
UCSB American Indian student organizations